

SUBSTITUTE ABSTRACT

A composite material has a base substrate body with first and second coatings. Each coating is formed by a multiphase layer of titanium oxide and at least two oxides from the group of aluminum, zirconium, and hafnium oxide and a second single-phase layer on the first layer consisting of only one oxide of aluminum, zirconium, and hafnium.